Residents pay more despite tax rate dip

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

A decrease in the basic tax rate for Antioch Township residents will not mean a lower tax bill. On the contrary, more money will be coming from taxpayers pockets to contribute to higher demands from the taxing districts.

In Antioch Township, the total equalized assessed value (EAV) of property climbed about 10 percent to $230,581,842 in 1990, according to Township Assessor Cliff Houghton. As a result, the basic township tax rate dropped from 1.414 in 1989 to 1.373 in 1990.

However, the 1990 tax extension or "spending power" afforded the each taxing district is also up in many cases.

For taxpayers, this means that their properties are valued at a higher rate and more money is being allocated to the district coffers. Consequently, the lower tax rate multiplied with the higher value of property still equals a larger tax payment than the previous year.

In 1989, the Village of Antioch's tax extension was $628,069.03, or a tax rate of .945 on an EAV of $66,462,328. The 1990 EAV of $73,167,550 accounts for a tax extension of $778,502.77 on a rate of 1.064.

The Antioch Library District tax extension figures were not available from the facility.

The basic tax rate is comprised of the following taxing authorities at the following rates:

	1990	1989
County	.538	.556
Forest Preserve	.141	.143
College of Lake Co.	.242	.250
Antioch Twp.	.170	.176
Ant.-Road and Bridge	.162	.169
Ant.-Gravel	.120	.120

The sum of the basic rates is added to the rates which affect each of the various tax districts, including school taxing districts, throughout the township. All told, the township includes 19 tax constituencies as follows:

	1990	1989
School Dist. 24	3.442	3.488
Dist. 33	2.377	2.239
Dist. 34	2.963	2.892
Dist. 36	2.638	2.654

Dist. 41	2.227	2.322
Dist. 114	2.911	2.666
Dist. 13	.000
High School Dist. 117	2.030	1.931
High School Dist. 124	1.994	1.953
High School Dist. 157	.000
Ant. Library Dist.	.190	.166
Fox Lake Libr. Dist.	.177	.186
Ant. Fire Prot. Dist.	.345	.352
Fox Lake Fire Prot. Dist.	.462	.481
Vil. of Antioch	1.064	.945
Vil. of Fox Lake	1.585	n/a
Vil. of Lake Villa	.893	.955
Lake Co. SSA #8	.284	n/a

Within the boundaries of those constituencies the basic figure added to the serving districts is multiplied by the assessed valuation plus any multipliers levied by the state and/or county to equalize the value.

The assessment formula is based, in part, on updated real estate market prices. The assessment should make up for one-third of the market value of the property.

Property determined by county or state officials to be under-assessed by the township, could be charged with a multiplier by either or both units to bring the valuation equal with the one-third per the market formula.

Curbside pick-up plan to start June 1

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

Curbside collection of household refuse, recyclables, yard waste and leaves will begin Saturday, June 1, under Antioch's new waste disposal contract. The contract was awarded to Waste Management of Lake County, less than two weeks after an undisclosed settlement was reached in a lawsuit between the village and the corporation.

Under terms of the contract, unanimously approved April 29 by the Antioch Village Board of Trustees, residents will pay a monthly fee of $10.25 per residential unit. The contractor will provide 100-gallon carts for refuse, recyclables and yard waste, to be placed along the curb on the designated pick-up day.

Senior citizens (65 and older) can take advantage of a discounted rate of $8.97 per month. For the reduced rate, the customers will receive a 64-gallon cart and the full-range of service. Waste Management requires proof of age to obtain the discount which is also available to physically challenged individuals.

"We'll be getting three services for what most residents are now paying for one," said Trustee Marilyn Shineflug.

The initial rate of the 3-year contract is guaranteed for at least the first year, according to Bob Van Tholen, Waste Management General Manager.

Additionally, the cost of leaf removal, which will be available April 15 through December 1, is prorated over a 12-month period.

Existing service will be terminated pending the implementation of the new contract. Competing haulers will be notified of the contract via certified letters from the village and Waste Management.

Presently, Van Tholen estimates that 75-80 percent of Antioch residents are Waste Management customers. He added that any overlap in billing will be credited to the customer's account.

Lake County at a Glance

Scrap prices down

MUNDELEIN—No grants from profits of the village's curbside recycling program have been made for eight months and none may be made for eight more months. Newspapers that once sold for $35 a ton bring nothing, the little scrap aluminum collected brings 40 cents a pound and glass a little less. That means the 17 organization that received thousands of dollars in grants in the first 14 months of the program are lucky.

Kill senior center

LIBERTYVILLE—Senior citizens are disappointed about a township decision not to use open-space funds to build a multi-purpose center on township open-space land to serve Libertyville, Mundelein and Vernon Hills. Public opposition led by area residents and the Libertyville-Mundelein League of Women Voters led the township board to re-evaluated its open-space priorities.

First train

FOX LAKE—A new tourist attraction, a dinner train on tracks formerly used by the Milwaukee Road, made a successful inaugural run with more than 100 persons aboard, mostly dignitaries and friends of the Wisconsin and Calumet Railroad. With Walworth, Wis., the destination, dinner train travelers will board at Fox Lake weekends throughout the summer. Dining cars recreate splendor of the 1920's. The train is powered by modern diesel locomotives.

Honor Neal

GURNEE—More than 500 people attended a testimonial reception for Lake County Board member Robert Neal of Dist. 3 Sunday. Neal was lauded for his eight-year term as Republican Party chairman, which ended last year, and other accomplishments, at the Diplomat Restaurant in Gurnee.

Curriculum talk

GRAYSLAKE—Grayslake Community High School heard from a variety of viewpoints on curriculum issues at its last board meeting. There were less than 20 students and parents at the meeting, a far cry from the hundreds who attended a meeting the previous month when representatives from the group Parents for Integrity in Education (P.I.E.) launched a protest against an English assignment to update the Washington Irving story, "The Devil and Tom Walker". Two parents, a student and even a board member spoke from the audience on the curriculum issues.

Accepting bids

LAKE ZURICH — In the last meeting under the President of Dennis Abbott, the Lake Zurich Rural Fire protection district voted to accept bids for construction of the first of three planned stations. The fire house will be located at Old McHenry Rd. and Fairfield Rd.

Look at lake

WAUCONDA — Wauconda's Lake Assessment Committee has made a preliminary pass at the results of the Lake County Public Health Department's study and report on Bangs Lake. Another meeting to study the assessment, which began last year, has been tentatively set for May 22. A digest of the lengthy report will be made available some time in the future. "We dotted some i's and made some adjustments," Trustee Leroy Hampel said of the committee's initial look at the assessment. "We didn't get to management techniques." Hampel said the report put the lake in "fair to good condition with good restorative abilities." The assessment came up with "nothing really bad," Hampel said.

Exceptional Children's Week arrives

Exceptional Children's Week is coming to Lake County May 5 through 11. Each year, the Illinois Council for Exceptional Children and the Governor of Illinois proclaim the first full week in May, as Exceptional Children's Week. This year's theme is, "Together-Let's Recognize Every Child." The Council for Exceptional Children is a non-profit organization of educators and others interested in the education and welfare of exceptional children and youth. The major goal for Exceptional Children's Week is making citizens aware of the needs and accomplishments of exceptional children.

Activities: Sunday, May 5, Field Events at Warren Twp., High School field house; Monday, May 6, Talent Shot at Pervilian Nursing Home in Waukegan; Wednesday, May 8, Talent Show at Libertyville Manor in Libertyville; Friday, May 10, Talent Show at Winchester House in Libertyville; and May 5 through 10, Arts and Crafts Show will be on display at Lakehurst Mall.

Growing old is no reason to stop growing.

Someday, you may need special care for an elderly person you love. That's when you'll be glad you know about Hillcrest Retirement Village.

Hillcrest is an intermediate care nursing center. But more important, we're a group of people who care enough to respond to other needs as well. Needs for compassion. Companionship. And Comfort. We offer therapy for the mind as well as the body. With activities that challenge both. From continuing education classes to daily exercise classes to arts, music and crafts.

We believe the most important part of elderly care is caring.

It's not the warm, relaxed surroundings that make Hillcrest so special. It's the attitude that flourishes in such a pleasant atmosphere.

For a detailed brochure, write Hillcrest Retirement Village (an Intermediate Care Nursing Center), at 1740 N. Circuit Drive, Round Lake Beach, Illinois 60073. Or call Alan Rosenbraum at (708) 546-5301. It's a decision you would feel good about.

Alcohol, tobacco ads out at village events

Advertising of alcohol and tobacco products is forbidden at events sponsored by the Village of Antioch according to an ordinance passed unanimously by the Antioch Village Board of Trustees, April 29.

Originated through the Antioch Drug and Alcohol Task Force, the ordinance applies only to village-sponsored events. However, club-sponsored and other such events held on village property are encouraged to operate under a similar policy.

The sale of alcoholic beverages is still permitted at village functions and the price of the beverages may be posted.

Signs featuring alcohol or tobacco advertising will no longer be used to promote the event.

Red tags force residents out

Conditions described as "totally unsafe" prompted Antioch Public Safety Inspector Lee Shannon to red-tag a two-flat at 361 Harden St.

The property, owned by Larry Fales, was investigated after residents complained of an odor which was causing headaches. Shannon discovered standing water in the basement, as well as other safety code violations.

"There was a definite hazard and a definite risk involved in entering the basement," said Shannon.

The water was subsequently removed by a tenant of the building. However, residents have not yet been permitted to move back.

The Antioch Village Board of Trustees agreed to monitor the situation and citations would be issued where necessary. A fee of $480 for the inspections has already been incurred by the owner.

"I think we've got a case that far exceeds our Joanna Court Apartment thing," added Shannon in reference to the red-tagging, last winter, of an apartment building due to numerous electrical and roofing violations.

Grads prepare for big day

Antioch Community High School's commencement ceremony will be held Sunday, June 2. Admission is by ticket only. Each candidate will be given four tickets at the graduation practice, Wednesday, May 29.

Candidates desiring additional tickets may receive up to two more on a first come, first served basis. Additional tickets will be distributed to the candidates only from the Principal's Office on Thursday, May 30 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. If any tickets are left, the procedure will be repeated on Friday, May 31.

The May 29 practice will be held at 1:15 p.m. It is important that all candidates are present. Caps and gowns will be distributed together with Commencement Exercise Tickets.

Customarily, seniors are given three to four days off at the end of the school year as part of Senior Week. The purpose of the time off is to allow for job or college hunting, cleaning up any final projects or papers due in their classes or just "goofing off" or working on a tan before the graduation exercises. This year includes May 30, 31, June 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Every year certain seniors feel they have more time off due them and organize an earlier "Senior Ditch Day" and sometimes, two or three, which is legally truancy. Even the seniors who don't take the extra time are penalized by those who do because of the necessity of reteaching.

ACHS officials are urging parents of seniors not to support their child's truancy by falsely claiming illness.

Exchange Club salutes Hortons for patriotism

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

World War I veteran and Purple Heart Recipient Floyd Horton, 98, Antioch wears his war wounds proudly. For more than 40 years, he and his wife, Claire, 88, have extended their pride to those who died after serving their country.

Since World War II, Claire has been responsible for the placement of American flags at the graves of veterans in seven Antioch-area cemeteries. The task amounts to about a week of work and has grown to include the placement of about 600 flags.

Although she has retired from the bulk of her responsibilities in the project, both Claire and Floyd remain devoted to their country.

The patriots were honored as Citizens of the Month by the Antioch Exchange Club and are among the scores of people being honored during National Older Americans Month, during the May.

Both natives of the area, Claire was born in Trevor and Floyd was born "way down south somewhere", he believes around Ingleside.

In 1927 Floyd was serving his country in France during World War I. His unit was situated at the northeast corner of the country, near the German border.

The course of his life was changed when a bullet shot through his right arm. He was hit at about 8 a.m. and was unable to be transported to the hospital until late in the afternoon. His injury was not tended to by medical professionals until after midnight.

His bravery earned him the Purple Heart and the Freedom Medal, both of which he displays proudly.

Back on the home front, Claire was working her family's 375-acre Wilmot farm, while her brothers were serving in the war. She was able to enlist under Boys Working Reserve, taking time away from Wilmot High School studies, because recruiters thought that "Claire" was a male moniker.

"They didn't know she was a she," described Claire.

For her effort, she received the Boys Working Reserve Medal.

The compatriots finally crossed paths as Claire made one of her frequent walks down the railroad tracks from Trevor to visit her grandmother. Floyd lived across the street.

The couple was married in 1923 and have lived in their present home for the past 40 years. As newlyweds, they lived without electricity. Now, fast food restaurants and automatic teller machines are within walking distance of their home.

"It didn't make any difference to us," said Floyd.

The Hortons have seen major changes sweep the village, but take them all in stride. They recall the early days, when the Antioch Depot was the hub of activity and the ice industry was big business.

They have seen the blacksmith shop and several hotels come and go. The Antioch Senior Center now occupies the site of a milk factory. Livestock and farmland have been swallowed up by development.

Yet, in face of all the changes, the Hortons continue to flaunt their true colors and ensure that the red, white and blue tribute graces the graves of area veterans.

Stedl adds up

6-Year old finds grand prize egg

by LIZ SCHMEHL

Special prize

Talk about finding a needle in a haystack, that is exactly what six-year old Heidi Soder did during a recent trip to Opry Land in Nashville, Tennessee. Heidi, Her mom (Kathy), dad (Wayne), and sister (Savana) met grandma and grandpa (Joan and Ray Toft) in Nashville. While there, Heidi and Savana participated in an Easter Egg Hunt consisting of 2500 hidden eggs. Inside one of the eggs was a slip indicating the finder of the egg was the recipient of the grand prize. Heidi got lucky, found the egg, and is now the proud owner of a limited edition Bugs Bunny doll dressed in a gold tuxedo in commemoration of Bug's 50th anniversary. Little Savana did not walk away empty handed as she found the egg awarding her the prize of a little white stuffed bear. All in all the Soders and Tofts had a very enjoyable spring vacation and a lot of special memories revolving around their visit to Opry Land.

Special Story

As I mentioned "many" times before, each and every youngster in the Camp Crayon program is special and unique. However, every now and then, something extra special takes place involving a particular child. This week's focus is on little Nina Hurmis, whose special bright smile lights up my room. We were sitting in our activity circle and I made some comment concerning Miss Debi's instruction of our daily calendar. My tongue got in the way of my eye teeth and I obviously could not see what I was saying. I flubbed a word accidentally then purposely gave out an exaggerated babble. Little Nina, sitting close by, reacted to my silliness by turning in my direction and laughed soooooo whole heartedly. This genuine spontaneous laughter made me react the same way. I laughed so hard at Nina's response to my silliness that Miss Debi and Miss Marie soon joined us as did many of the other youngsters sitting in the circle. Yep, one more special moment working amidst these special little people that makes the job so rewarding. I often remark that I would love to be able to track each and every one of these Camp Crayon participants through grade school and high school and witness their growth into fine young adults.

Spring Program

"Proud to be an American" was this year's theme for the annual GLS Spring Program and Art Festival. The beautiful program cover was designed by Rock Welch a GLS sixth grade student. Parents and relatives enjoyed the beautiful songs sung by the students of grades K-5 and everyone was also entertained by musical selections performed by the beginning, intermediate, and junior high bands. Thomas Bainbridge, the music director, did an excellent job coordinating the musical portions of the evening. Afterward the guests were invited to tour the school in order to view the student's beautiful art work. There was literally art work everywhere, in the hallways, in the classrooms, up and down the stair wells, and throughout the media center. Many types of works were on display, oil paintings, water colors, chalk art, ink drawings, string art, wood crafts, ceramic creations, clay potteries, etc. and each item was prettier than the next. This art festival represents a culmination of many weeks of work by the students under the direction of Carol

Special place

On a recent Friday morning I joined JoAnn Weber, Marie Brausam, and Debi Mozal for breakfast at the Skandia House Restaurant located on Grass Lake Road. As we sat discussing Debi's struggle with her garage door and Joann's very interesting dream, a stream of familiar faces came and went. When I entered the restaurant I spotted Larry Edelman, Sr. sipping his coffee and Jackie and John Miller were enjoying a relaxing conversation over breakfast.

against the flat rate for yard waste pick-up, stating that the service is not needed by residents who own mulching mowers.

A subscription rate of $3 per month for yard waste pick-up was available, with an additional charge of $1 per bag for anything over three bags. The flat rate offers unlimited pick-up for $2 per month.

Koziorowski advocated the subscription yard waste service coupled with a flat rate leaf pick-up plan at an annual cost of $4,875 to the village.

However, the plan was dismissed due to concerns over the potential for abuse of the an optional system and random dumping.

"I think it will contribute to dumping, which is already a problem in the village, to make it optional," said Shineflug.

Antioch regains form in NSC softball race

Antioch High School's softball team will be taking a break from the North Suburban Conference race Monday after getting back on track with two league wins last week.

The Sequoits host Niles North May 3 but then are at Crystal Lake Central May 6. The May 3 game starts at 10:30 a.m. and the Monday game at 4:30 p.m.

Antioch downed Stevenson 11-3 and North Chicago 15-3 for a 11-5 record, 6-3 overall.

April Kilman, a junior, was the hitting star against North Chicago, as she was five-for-five, raising her batting average to .435.

Robin Horton was the winning pitcher, improving to 6-4 as she struckout four North Chicago batters.

Antioch gained revenge for an 8-7 loss to Stevenson with an 11-3 win. Jenny Hagen had three hits and three RBIs. Janelle Maki, Linda Stark and Kelly Shaughnessy had two RBIs each.

Antioch had suffered its first two NSC losses of the year dropping a 5-4 decision to Warren and a 2-1, 13 inning game to Lake Forest.

"Antioch had several opportunities to win, but errors cost us," Antioch Coach Judy Smithhisler said of the 13-inning game. Antioch took a 1-0 lead in their fourth but Lake Forest tied the game in the seventh inning.

The Sequoits took out their frustrations in the 12-2 win in game two. Maki was two-for-three.

'Miss Fitz Goes International' this year

by ELLEN RUTLIN
Lakeland Newspapers

A worldly woman has ventured homeward, Miss Fitz is her name. With a knowledge of culture and a face lift to boot, she'll share her fortune and fame.

Countryside School, Barrington, is packed to its basketball backboards once again for its 41st Miss Fitz sale attended by hundreds from miles around on May third and fourth.

This year contributions to the sale feature items bought from around the world including Aztec Calendars, Haitian mahogany and Mexican quartz sculptures.

"To the best of our knowledge, this is the oldest and largest sale of its kind in all Chicagoland," said Linda Tatum of Countryside's publicity chairperson for the event. "People even come from Wisconsin because the selection is so huge and the prices so low."

The annual sale began in 1950 when the Countryside Mother's Club held an out grown clothing sale. Like new clothing outgrown many times before children had a chance to wear them more than once was collected and sold. At that time the organizers hoped the event would pull enough interest to become an annual sale.

The sale endured beyond a shadow of anyone's doubt. Nine years later, the first logo emerged for the little lady whose name graces the sale.

A little old lady shaped much like a clothes pin carrying an armload of "stuff" was Miss Fitz.

The parents organization at Countryside carries on the tradition, but added themes and eliminated the grey lady image for the modern woman.

"It was her 41st birthday, so we decided to give her a face lift and update her style," said Dede Wamberg artist and personifier of this year's logo.

The sale expanded its boundaries over the years to include housewares, sporting goods, furniture and a variety of other departments. However, organizers emphasize the sale is not a dumping ground for unwanted items.

"We set standards," said one parent helping with set up of the sale. The list of "unwants" includes: Large appliances, soiled or stained furniture, plumbing fixtures, tires, scrap metal, carpet padding and clothing that is soiled stained or torn.

What the hundreds of eager shoppers will find within the wall of Countryside School are clothes, many valued at $45 or more, offered for one dollar.

Craft items and some antiques are often found tucked away in the sale for treasure seekers.

Profits from the sale are donated to the school to purchase or replace needed "no frills" items. Last year's contribution of $15,000 resulted in a new sound system, stenciling machine, video camera and library furniture as well as other items for the classroom.

This year's purchase requests include library books, playground equipment and a Mac Intosh computer for teachers and aids.

"Any merchandise that's left over goes to charities," Wamberg said.

In addition to more than a gymnasium full of bargains; a new mink coat, a diamond and amethyst ring, $100 savings bond and a "Discover Chicago Weekend" will be among several items raffled at the sale.

"Besides working on this all year, we take a full week just to set this resale event up," Tatum said.

Time for improvement

After 50 years, Illinois is about to scrap the public school regulatory process that focuses on compliance with statutes, rather than how well students are learning. State Supt. of Education Robert Leininger says the system will be shifting from a quantitative to a qualitative evaluation.

There should be little argument with the plan endorsed by the State Board of Education that will move student learning and school improvement to the head of the class. Major parts of the new process are compliance, performance and improvement. Compliance will be the minimum rather than the maximum for state recognition.

The new process where student performance will be the primary indicator undoubtedly will have a profound affect on public education. A special committee recommended such indicators as rates of attendance, retention, expulsion, graduation and post graduation placement. The state will be looking for broad-based input on setting standards.

An "Academic Watch List" will be established for schools which fail to meet standards. Recommendations provide for the state to take over schools that fail to meet standards for four years.

The revised regulatory system will begin with the 1992-93 school year. Our local schools are used to implementing new regulations and mandates so the new system should be put in place with ease. The big difference is that the new regulatory system will make a difference.

After a half century, everyone ought to be ready and eager to take a step that can contribute significantly to improving the product of our public schools.

Depke applauded

With the power of his office and a window of opportunity at hand, County Chairman Robert Depke is in a position to make a land use decision of historic proportions. Depke has decided to take a second look at the findings of the Land Conservation Committee with the possibility of instituting a farmland preservation program.

Never mind the motivation behind Depke's apparent change of heart. He deactivated the committee last January. The important thing is that county government's leader is willing to consider doing something about saving what's left of a once significant industry and a feature that gives this locality its unique character, our openness and rural heritage.

A key ingredient of the committee's report was the finding that a substantial portion of Lake County residents are willing to make an annual payment, probably as part of their real estate taxes, to preserve farmland. Depke has expressed skepticism about this method of land acquisition.

There is a bitter-sweet aspect to the chairman's new found interest in open space. Four months ago it appeared as though the chairman was bent on total dismantlement of efforts of previous boards to acquire open space. Now Depke is exhibiting a willingness to talk about farmland preservation. The chairman has a deep seated antipathy toward condemnation as a means of public lands acquisition. Condemnation was the linch pin of past Forest Preserve Dist. leadership. Depke pointedly stated that "willing sellers" are needed to make a preservation program successful.

If that is the big difference between past and future efforts, so be it.

Direct public support of farmland acquisition is an interesting concept. We wish Chairman Depke well in his review. Lake County should keep a good bit of its farmland so we can maintain our identity as well as our special quality of life.

Letters to the Editor

Hurting battered women

Editor:

Governor Edgar's budget cuts $2.1 million from domestic violence programs in Illinois. I oppose these cuts from the budget.

I am a volunteer of A Safe Place, the only service provider for battered women and their children in Lake County. The governor's budget will have a devastating impact on our ability to serve these victims.

I want the legislature to reconsider the priorities within the budget in favor of reestablishing the cuts to funding of domestic violence services.

'Facts' reported were 'bull'

Editor:

In a politically speaking column, "Bull in China Shop," the author did have some of the "facts" correct; like is usually the case, he can't seem to write an entire article without citing something which is totally untrue—or partially true, but twisted—to skewer someone or to make a point.

In the last paragraph, it is alleged that "Depke invoked the five-minute rule on speakers opposed to him or items he favored on the board agenda. He simply turned off their microphones. Anyone speaking in favor of the chairman or his agenda got as much time as they wanted."

That quotation is unadulterated "Bull!" The first speaker to whom the chairman recited the five minute rule was a young lady who had spoken for almost 10 minutes before he reminded her of the rule. She then spoke for another five minutes without interruption.

No speaker on either side of the issue, other than her, exceeded the five minute rule. The only person who spoke longer than five minutes to the issue was not debating the issue. That person was the lawyer who went through the agreement providing all in attendance with a synopsis of what was in it, and, that occurred before debate on the issue.

Sure, the column addressed above is an "opinion" article and is not represented as news, but, that which it provides as fact should be just that, fact! Frankly, I must confess that I did not see the author of the article in the room during the meeting when the debate took place. If he was there, I did not see him. If he wasn't there, perhaps that explains why he has misrepresented what happened by presenting erroneous information as if he witnessed it in the first person rather than by attributing it to whomever gave him the bad information!

Cop's wife speaks out

Editor:

To members of "I-RATE" and the other residents of Libertyville who attacked the village budget, the Libertyville Police Department is one of the lowest paid departments in the county. I know this because my husband is one of your police officers. He has protected you and your family for 24 years. He did not become a police officer to get rich. He became a police officer to serve and protect.

I cannot understand how some could question a five percent increase for village employees. And it makes me very angry that some suggest that the village should reduce or eliminate salary increases. Five percent is nothing compared with the ser-

Zebra mussels may invade Chain waters

by BILL SCHROEDER

Alert biologists are watching the Chain O' Lakes and Fox River for an invasion of zebra mussels, the prolific and obnoxious mollusks that have been discovered in Lake Michigan.

Too many boats, too many anglers, too many water skiers, too many carp. Now the zebra mussels.

Shedd Aquarium curators confirmed the presence of zebra mussels in the Lake Michigan bottom near the aquarium. Some of the specimens were capable of reproduction. One female can produce up to 40,000 eggs a year.

One of the professionals keeping tabs on zebra mussels is Harry Bernhardt of Libertyville, a biologist for Commonwealth Edison. Utility officials are afraid the mussels might clog water intakes at generating stations on Lake Michigan. Bernhardt has a tentative date to address the Fox Lake Rotary Club on possible Chain infestation.

Biologists reason that zebra mussels might be transported from Lake Michigan to the Chain in boat bilges, just like they were brought to this country from Europe. Zebra mussels are said to be causing havoc in Lake Erie.

MERRY MAIL---One of the fun parts of my job is opening the mail from sharp-eyed and sometimes sharp-tongued readers.

You needlessly took a cheap shot at the White Sox. We can handle your Cub drivel on the editorial page. I won't pick up your paper again. Nice job, Dave Smith, against the Pirates. Ha, ha. I'll see you in the stands when the Sox draw three mil and get in the series. But you won't be there.

Phil Pospychala
Libertyville

Phil:

Sorry you feel that way. A vice received. Five percent isn't even keeping up with the cost of living from last year.

Many officers, including mine, have part-time jobs to help make ends meet. Police officers and their families make sacrifices. My husband can't be sure that he will be safe when he goes to work everyday. Do you have to worry about being punched out by a drunk driver during a traffic stop? What if a domestic violence call puts my husband's life in danger, do you have that worry? If you need help on Christmas day, is the police department closed?

We have two sons, and when they were young, they couldn't understand why their father wasn't home with them like their friends' fathers. It was the same for Thanksgiving, Easter, etc. Would you enjoy rotating shifts every 28 days? On the 3-11 shift my sons don't even see their father.

I'm thankful for one Fox Lake trustee who is concerned with how Fox Lake spends taxes. That's one out of six if you count the mayor. In a day when people serve the bureaucrats, instead of them serving us, Darwin Follman is one of the few who stands up for what is proper.

Bill:

Green Oaks is not now or ever has been a "...section of Libertyville." Green Oaks was incorporated in 1960 and only recently annexed Lambs Farm. I have noted with continuing alarm the trend of both real estate agents and newspaper reporters to refer to Green Oaks as a section of Libertyville. Libertyville has seen a continuing decline in its open space and semi-rural environment. It may seem appropriate to Libertyville's image to point to Green Oaks as one of its subdivisions, but let the facts speak for themselves.

And it wouldn't hurt to hear a thank you once in a while, but that rarely happens - you're too busy complaining.

All boards not weak-kneed

Editor:

In reference to your editorial "Don't blame Springfield" (April 12), please note that in 1991 at least one other school referendum was successful in Lake County. Beach Park School Dist. 3 passed a $1.7 million building bond issue for an addition to and remodeling of Beach School.

I applaud the voters in Dist. 3 for understanding the issue and its affect on them, recognizing the need for more room and passing the referendum. It is my opinion that there will not, in the near future, be a less expensive time to sell the bonds than now, that the construction project will create jobs in the trades industry thus helping the economy, and that the Beach Park students and community are the real winners.

Additionally, I take exception to your portrayal of school board members. To stereotype all board members as "weak-kneed" seems inappropriate and certainly (Continued on next page)

FAITHFUL SHOW UP—Friday's annual Lake County Republican Federation dinner is supposed to be a knockout.

Attendance is scheduled to surpass the 1989 fete when 650 party faithful showed up. Patron tickets at $200 a head are selling like hot cakes, says Valerie Miller, federation secretary.

What's the draw this time? A chance to see and hear Clayton Yeutter, the new national GOP party chairman. Fred Foreman, the new federal D.A. for Northern Illinois? Mary Gade of Waukegan, the new director of the Illinois Dept. of Environmental Protection? Bob Kustra, the new lieutenant governor?

If must be one or all of the above. It can't be the garden variety $60 tickets.

TIME TO ROAR—It's tough to keep a good man down. That's Bob Neal, the deposed chairman of the Lake County Republican Party, one-time GOP bigwig precinct committeeman in Newport Twp., member of the Lake County Board and on the Illinois Tollway Authority.

He has a new hat to wear. It is as president of the Wadsworth Lions Club.

One of the steps leading to this office is that of Tail Twister.

POLITICAL PRESSURE—Fred Foreman, the darling of Lake County, who is now U.S. district attorney for northern Illinois is having some pressure put on him.

Up to late January he ignored pleas of a constituent to look into the failure of the Libertyville Federal Savings and Loan Assn. In March the federal Resolution Trust Corp. sued six former directors and officers to repay $20 million the taxpayers otherwise will have to. The ultimate cost could double to $40 million.

Tim Anderson, the Libertyville bank expert who blew the whistle, gave up trying to bring irregularities to the proper attention through the office of GOP Congressman John Porter (R-Wilmette). Ignored, Anderson went to U.S. Sen. Paul Simon (D-Illinois). Subsequently, one of Simon's letters to Foreman pointed out the extra federal dollars offices like Foreman's got to uncover fraud in the savings and loan industry. Yet, nothing visible happened in Libertyville from that high federal office.

Simon's office continues firing letters all over the place. They ask when the area politicians are going to get involved and what they are going to do about the mess that has grown to five failed thrifts in Porter's district.

A call to Foreman's office and Frank Miller last week elicited this response: "I can't confirm or deny the existence of any investigation or impending action."

"That's because this insolvency is politically embarrassing to the Republicans," Anderson said about past political contributions directors made to the politicians. These came from both the past directors and officers of Libertyville Federal plus others in the thrift industry.

TIME OUT—Brawn rather than brains is fast becoming the way to solve disputes involving Lake County's high and mighty.

Several months ago Lake County Building and Zoning Director Robert Streicher decked a constituent with a complaint. The subject of the attack outside Streicher's Lake Villa's home was 20 years his senior.

Last month it was the turn of Mark Reinstein, Antioch-based regional director for the Illinois Education Assn. He backhanded across the face William Lomas, principal of Fox Lake's Stanton School, in a dispute involving a school bus driver.

Now, if we can get Streicher and Reinstein into a ring together.....

STILL MAKING NEWS—Norman Geary of Grayslake, the former Lake County Board chairman, is still making headlines. Those who took his place in the Avon Twp. office are making sure of that.

He is being asked to repay $12,700 received between 1978 and 1989 for serving as township trustee at the same time he was township supervisor. With interest, the figure is $15,000.

Repayment has been ordered by a Circuit Court judge in McHenry County. It was moved there because the matter was too hot to handle in Lake County. The judge in the case ruled earlier this year that Geary double dipped.

Rudy Magna, the Avon Twp. attorney, has asked for payment—in full. Now, Geary says he will appeal. Geary is a politician who doesn't give up easily.

"I don't see much of you any more," I told Geary the other day, "but I see your picture and read about you regularly in the newspaper."

"Yes," he replied, "I'm the busiest guy around without doing anything."

Letters

(Continued from preceding page) inaccurate. I would not characterize any school board members, either in the districts where I live (Antioch Dis. 34 and Antioch High School Dist. 117) or in the district where I work, as "weak-kneed." These members do not, nor have not, "continually caved-in to the pressures of powerful teachers' unions demanding more pay and more benefits." (Am I to infer that you would not give more pay nor more benefits to a group of people who historically have been undercompensated?)

I do, however, agree with one point you made. Our children are growing up in "an era when they must have more education than ever to find their way in an adult world." Teachers, administrators and board members are acutely aware of this and as a result are regularly updating and adding curriculum to meet the needs of today's students. The State of Illinois continuously mandates more and more in the way of programs offered, policies enacted and performances of the aforementioned evaluated. Input from the community in all of these endeavors is encouraged.

If more of the electorate took a greater interest in an became more involved in the public education system, perhaps a heightened awareness would bring increased support for programs, projects and policies. Then, truly all students and communities would be winners.

Builders win, homeowners lose

The recently approved Grand-Hunt agreement shows once again that development and realty interests control the Gurnee Village Board and the majority of the Lake County Board. The average homeowner has lost again.

These officials praise the proposed golf course to be built on the property. But is a new golf course needed just two miles away from the Brae Lock golf course? Are Gurnee residents willing to pay for 20 years for such a facility?

These officials applaud the $880,000 being asked of the developers for improvements to Hunt Club Rd. But the simple widening of this tow mile stretch won't begin to eliminate the impact this development will have on all the area roads. Will the taxes generated be enough for the maintenance of this road?

But not everyone loses. Mayor Welton will have thousands of new customers for his stores. I wouldn't be surprised to soon see a Welton's Market on the west side of town. And if the demand for city services increases, he can hire more of his relatives in city positions.

Bob Depke did okay in this deal too. He managed to surround himself and his elite neighbors with the golf course and a large park. Eight thousand or more people can probably eat lots of his yogurt as well. Mrs. Depke's realty career certainly won't be hurt by having 3,500 new homes in the area.

I don't understand yet if Jack Martin, a buddy of Mr. Depke's, has anything to gain from all this, but in February Mr. Martin compared Depke's election campaign to his business in that "we sell people things they don't need at a very expensive price." Well, said, Mr. Martin. Unfortunately we have to wait three more years to return the merchandise for a refund.

Wants intentions known

Editor: Some person or persons in Libertyville are spending a lot of time, and especially a very large amount of money, to promote the organization known as I-RATE (Individuals for Responsible and Accountable Tax Equity). The name is almost patriotic, but I am not sure of the intentions of those responsible for creating and maintaining this organization. It seems to me that some person or persons may be going through a lot of trouble in order to create a political base at the expense of the quality of education and services available to Libertyville residents.

I think it is time for the individual or individuals who are directing and funding I-RATE to step forward and state their ultimate political intentions, as well as divulging for public scrutiny all past, current and proposed real estate holdings, dealings, developments, etc., whether held in trust so as to be hidden from public scrutiny, held as individual holdings, or held by businesses controlled by said individual or individuals. By knowing the intentions and doings of those in charge of I-RATE, we can better judge the intentions of I-RATE and the validity of statements made by I-RATE and its members.

I sincerely look forward to prompt and complete disclosure so that I, as a voter, may make more informed decisions, either in favor of positions trumpeted by I-RATE or against said positions trumpeted by I-RATE

Lester clan all over the area's landscape

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

Their business may be dirt, but you can't buffalo the Lester clan when the chips are down.

After apparently trying to produce a baseball club or a football squad, Ronald E. and Connie Lester settled for a basketball team with two substitutes.

Their investment in children has paid dividends at their two family-owned landscaping and yard-materials businesses.

Connie, the president of the family corporation, pretty much runs Lester's Material Service and Garden Center at 18930 W. Rte. 60 in Mundelein.

Steve, one of four sons, is the corporation vice president and head honcho at Lester's Material Service Inc. at 875 S. Rte. 83 in Grayslake.

Lori Lester-Zwilling, one of three daughters, is the company secretary-treasurer. Bill Lester dispatches the company trucks.

Also working within the corporation are son Mike Lester, daughter Susan (Lester) Radtke, son-in-law Brian Radtke and daughter-in-law Tina Lester (Steve's wife).

Daughter Anita (Lester) Wolf played a major role in getting the business to where it is today, but she's moved on to banking.

Son Ronald F. Lester has his own business, but it's related. His Architerra in Mundelein is a landscaping firm.

That takes us back to Ronald E. Lester, founder and chairman of the business he started almost 20 years ago.

"We go to dad for advice," Steve said. "He's like the judge. When we get into a family argument and we can't deal with somebody, he steps in."

At the tender age of 18, the senior Lester fought with the U.S. Marines in Korea. The Marines must have been impressed, because when he left the corps, he was a sergeant major.

During his stint in the Marines, Lester developed a penchant for buffaloes after he studied them and used the knowledge to teach his men about adaptation and survival.

After the corps, Lester spent a number of years working for others in the construction trades. In the early '70s, he and Connie started their own business in Mundelein.

The business has gone through several name changes, locations and zoning battles in the last two decades.

During all this time, Lester remained bullish on his beloved buffaloes. After he finally got permission to own some of the animals, he and the entire family traveled to Colorado and purchased four of the huge range rovers.

The buffaloes were at the center of a court case in the early '80s, when a neighbor found their presence offensive.

Steve and Lori said a buffalo chip (manure) was brought into the court room unbeknownst to the plaintiff. The chip was in the room for three hours before their attorney asked if anyone smelled anything. At that moment, the judge was holding the chip. When the plaintiff didn't object to any strange odors, the case was dismissed.

"Right there they threw it out of court," Steve said. "They smell in the spring when it's wet — you can't do anything about it. In the summer, when it's dry — nothing."

When the business expanded to Grayslake in 1988, that village welcomed the buffaloes with open arms. They're kept in a well-thought-out area next to the store.

But, back to business.

When they made the move to Grayslake, the Lesters were on the do-it-yourself plan.

"We did everything here ourselves," Steve explained. "We hired professional people to guide us, but we hand built it ourselves. Billy put the roof on."

After the expansion, the Mundelein store was in trouble. Connie was recovering from a serious illness, and "we were going to shut down the place and put it up for sale," Steve said.

"She made it into a workable business all by herself," Steve said.

Connie, it seems, knew what hard work was. "In the beginning, she had seven kids at home, and she was dealing with that," Steve offered. "And she was answering phones for the business and dispatching trucks. And she was in charge of the billing all by herself."

Connie's piece of the family rock specializes in lawn adornments, including gazebos, swing sets, wooden lawn furniture, plants and plant containers.

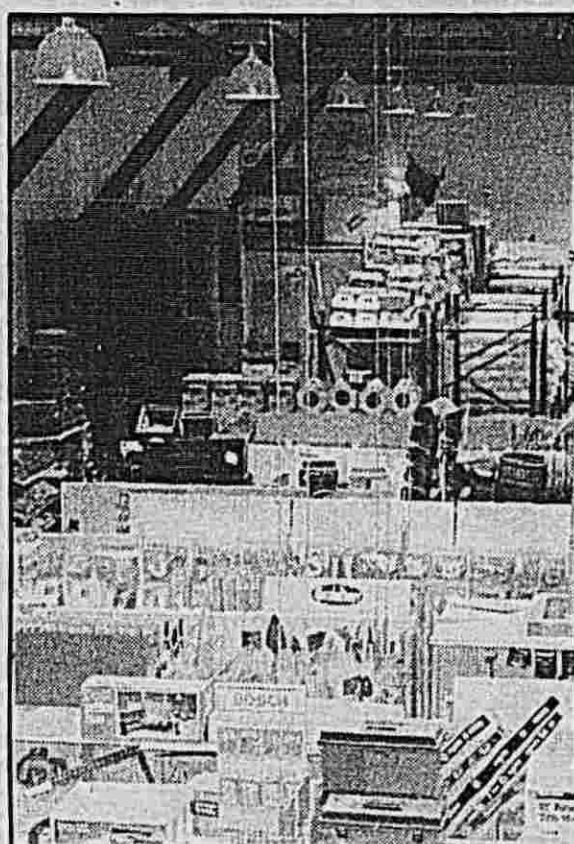

If you're looking for everything you need to landscape your property, Lester's in Grayslake is the place to go.

"We offer one-stop landscape shopping," Lori said.

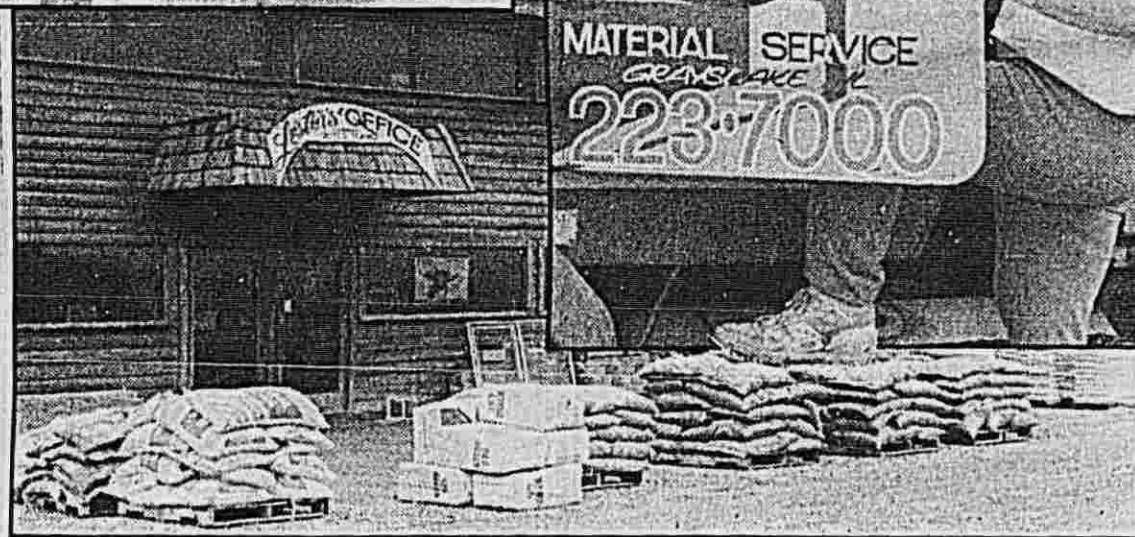

That includes small or bulk amounts of black dirt, sand, gravel, decorative stone and other earth materials.

"When we started out, we were basi-

Firms show new device to stop those pesky flies

Just in time for picnic season, a new product is on the market which could make the fly swatter obsolete.

Officials at SC Johnson Wax in Racine and The Cherry Corp., based in Waukegan, have launched a new electronic insect control device which the companies designed and are producing through a partnering arrangement.

Known as "The Protector," the device uses ultrasound to electronically zap bugs. The bugs then fall on a strip of paper where they are collected. The device was seven years in the making at Johnson Wax, which brought the concept to Cherry for design work. The first 50 units will be made at Cherry, located on the western edge of Waukegan. The Protector's cost is $119 and is being marketed in the spring issue of the Hammacher and Schlemmer catalog.

The device is 41 inches high, three and three-quarter inches deep and 11 and three-quarters inches long.

"We are pleased that SC Johnson Wax asked for our help. It was easy to see their enthusiasm for this important project. We found it to be contagious, and it didn't take long to see the great potential for this partnering effort by our two companies," Peter B. Cherry, president and chief executive officer of The Cherry Corp., said.

Dr. Jeffrey Brown, director of technical development for worldwide services division of Cherry, discussed The Protector's environmental benefits.

"This is a re-usable product. You don't throw it away," he said. Brown commented that it is dangerous allowing bugs to fly around. Even after they are killed, bugs have harmful affects. "You are inhaling these particles," Brown said.

The Protector can operate 24 hours a day with no chemicals, insecticides, poisons or fumes; it is specially designed for indoor use; it operates silently and does not startle pets like electronic fly "zappers"; runs on less electricity than a 30 watt light bulb.

The Cherry Corp., founded in 1953 in Highland Park, employs some 1,000 people in Waukegan and 3,100 people worldwide. It has produced and sold $208 million worth of electronic and electrical products in facilities and equipment with an original cost of $150 million.

Cherry participates in design for manufacturing and partnering arrangements with other major international customers. Among them are Xerox Corp., General Motors Corp., Pitney Bowes, Inc.; Hewlett Packard Co. and Ford Motor Company.

Waukegan business woman award seven scholarships

The Waukegan Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Assn. awarded seven scholarships. Julie Gutke of Lindenhurst was awarded the $1,000 Eveyln Rose Scholarship. Jennifer Nevill of Gurnee, Denise Watkins, Deborah Wagner and Mari-Jo Jacquette of Waukegan, Julie Freund of Ingleside and Lynette Larsen of Lindenhurst each were awarded a $750 scholarship.

These scholarships are made possible through the efforts of the Chapter members as a result of fundraisers throughout the

The Grayslake store is also an HWI® hardware dealer, offering a wide selection of lawn and garden tools.

Add in railroad ties, patio blocks, landscaping timbers and paving bricks. Don't forget three different varieties of mulch.

Steve said their store is currently the only Illinois outlet for Quadro Bricks. The four-brick assortment can be used to create 2,000 different designs for patios, driveways and around pools.

Steve said they're in a constant state of change, looking for new products.

"If enough people start asking for it, we'll carry it," Steve said. "Just about everything we have here is because someone said, 'Hey, do you carry this?' If they're willing to buy it, I'll get it."

"We give them personal service," Lori said. "We're grateful they came to us.

"If we wanted to, we could be a complete home center," Lori added.

"As long as we don't stray away too far, we'll be all right," Steve said. "Who knows? Maybe someday..."

"I'm not saying we do everything 100 percent right," Steve started.

"But we're doing our best," Lori finished.

And what about the "old man," who's gotten such a large return on just seven years of formal education?

"He made his mistakes and learned," Steve said of his dad. "He's street-smart. He earned his respect in a lot of other ways. He's the brains."

Tax shelters are not dead Personnel

by CHARLES WHITE

Tax shelters are dead! Scores of articles have been written and discussions had regarding this subject, which resulted from the sweeping tax reforms we saw in 1986.

You may be unaware that many individuals are discovering that sheltering infor children under age 18, their taxable income could be very low and there would be no "Kiddie Tax," since their wages would be considered earned income.

Seek competent advice

When beginning your business, find a competent attorney, financial planner and accountant. You want to discuss with them various forms of business ownership, paperwork and documents required, liability issues, financing needs, insurance, license requirements, etc.

Make sure you have a business plan that you can show them and use them to set your business up properly. The expense is worth every sleepless night or wasted hour you may have in the future, if you do not do it right the first time.

Other benefits would include being your own boss and calling your own shots. You manage your own time and possibly can work flexible hours right out of your home. If the business is set up prior to your retirement, it can provide supplemental income and provide some inflation protection to fixed pensions.

The drawbacks to be considered are irregular income, estimated tax payments, personal liability on loans, cyclical factors, paperwork, governmental regulation, legal requirements, overhead expense, accounts receivable and employee payroll. There may be more time demands and irregular hours worked. Many of these drawbacks can be lessened by proper advance planning and good advice. Get out and do it.

Finally, when all systems are go, get out and do it. Be confident of yourself, your abilities and what you have to offer. Your success is significantly increased when you exhibit these attributes to the buying public.

That is why it is so important to build the proper foundation before venturing out. Do not let little setbacks stop you. Simply chalk them up to experience and go on to the next person.

If you stay at it and show people you are serious, they will begin listening to you and buying what you are offering. Make sure you keep your promises, though, and always be willing to provide a little more service than the next guy or gal.

This way to wealth come is alive and well, when the income produced is a result of owning your own business. This is true when you actively participate in operating your business and you have a profit motive.

It seems unfortunate that many small businesses are begun during times of upheaval such as layoff or disability. People are then under significant pressure to succeed and to do it in a short period of time.

This gives the individual excuses to take short cuts, which then undermines the whole operation. It is these failures, then, which people hear about and cause anxiety to others thinking about being their own boss.

How much better would it be to thoughtfully plan out the new venture while pressures are less and perhaps try it on a part-time basis to build a proper foundation?

Map out a plan

You begin the process by taking a personal inventory. What talents or resources do you or your spouse have which could be marketed profitably? Perhaps you simply enjoy a certain activity so much, you think you could get others to pay you to do it. Or teaching others to do something you are particularly good at or have the patience for.

Whatever the product or service is, map out a plan. Talk to others in the field or in related areas and find out what is required, before you get involved. Then set goals and systematically work toward achieving them.

Weight the benefits

Naturally, before deciding which, if any, business is right for you, weight the various benefits against the drawbacks. Certainly there are tax benefits such as deductions for travel, entertainment, education, auto, retirement, home office, and section 179 expenses up to $10,000.

You also have income splitting opportunities in hiring your children. Since there is no FICA required

Home orchard a challenge, but rewarding hobby

Every summer many home gardeners are puzzled about their non-bearing fruit trees, says James A. Fizzel, University of Illinois Horticulturist in Cook County.

There may be one or several reasons why your fruit tree did not product fruit last year, so be prepared this year. For a fruit tree to bear properly it must be the right age, be in good health, be properly pollinated, experience the right environmental conditions and receive good care from you, the gardener.

All fruit trees have to reach a certain age before they are able to blossom and produce fruit, provided the other production factors mentioned above are met. Nursery-produced fruit trees have grafted tops that are one to two years old by the time you buy them, comments Fizzel.

Depending on the type of fruit tree planted, it may take one to 10 years at home for a tree to produce fruit in quantity. Standard size apple trees take four to 10 years, apricots four to five, cherries four to seven, peaches three to four, and pears and plums four to six.

Dwarf apple and pear trees can be expected to bear two to five years earlier than the standard size trees. Good fruit production after the tree reaches the right age will depend on environmental conditions, the health and bearing habit of the tree, good pollination, and the cultural practices you follow.

Keeping a tree in good health means following good cultural practices, says Fizzel. Follow the recommended spray schedule for diseases and insects. Fertilize properly, but not excessively. Too much fertilizer will keep the tree growing vigorously without producing fruit. Prune seasonally before bud-break in the spring. Follow the recommended pruning procedure for each type of fruit tree. Pruning is perhaps the most important cultural practice and can not be neglected. Protect the trunks of trees from mice and rabbit damage in the winter by putting a two to three foot high cylinder of 1/4 inch hardware cloth around the trunks in the fall.

Extreme cold winter weather may prevent fruit by killing flower buds produced in the fall. This particularly true of peaches, apricots, and sweet cherries. A spring freeze of 27 degrees when blossoms are open or of 24 or 25 degrees when the flower buds are just breaking can also reduce fruit production of any fruit tree, warns Fizzel.

Pollination is necessary for fruit production. Some tree fruits are self-unfruitful. That is, they can not pollinate themselves but require pollination by another variety of the same type of fruit. Most apples, sweet cherries, pears, and Japanese and American type plums are in this group. When planting these fruits, plant two or more varieties near each other.

Tree fruits that are self-fruitful are sour cherries, peaches (except 'J.H. Hale' and a few others), apricots, and European type plums. These do not require a separate pollination variety.

Certain fruit trees, especially certain apples varieties, experience biennial bearing—bearing a heavy crop of fruit one season and little or no fruit the next year. Proper thinning of blossoms or fruit within 30 days of blooming during the season of potentially heavy yield will help decrease the tendency for biennial bearing. Thin so there is approximately one fruit per foot of branch.

A home orchard is a challenge but with consistent and proper care it can become a rewarding hobby.

Mow often—water less often for stronger, healthier lawns

Lawn care is a popular outdoor leisure time activity. About 100 million people will spend one billion hours using 50 million lawn mowers to take care of their lawns. Another 82 percent of all Americans participate in some form of gardening, from flowers to lawns.

Despite its popularity many homeowners never really studied lawn care. Most people just picked up their knowledge when their parents gave them the chore of cutting the family lawn.

Following are suggestions and techniques on lawn care that can improve your lawn.

Most people wait until the grass is too high before mowing and then cut it too short. Instead, mow frequently enough to observe the One-Third Rule, cut off just one-third of the grass blade at each mowing. This causes less shock to the plants and helps the root system stay healthy. Frequent mowing actually helps a lawn choke out weeds because the grass grows in thicker.

Mower blades are often not sharp enough. A dull blade will shred grass tips which, in addition to turning brown and unsightly, create an entryway for disease organisms.

Many people water too lightly, too often. A proper schedule consists of infrequent, but deep waterings. These long drinks encourage a deep, healthy root system. An inch of water should be applied to the surface of the lawn each week. If the water doesn't come in the form of rain, use a garden hose.

FRANKLIN

OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 64'-0" X 62'-0"
LIVING: 2198 square feet
GARAGE: 625 square feet

FRANKLIN (209-57)
By Landmark Designs, Inc.

A bird's-eye view of the contemporary-style Franklin reveals that the home is laid out in a large square, with the garage in an overlapping smaller square at the front. The Franklin blends easily into a rural setting and is designed to take full advantage of a view.

Clerestory windows under a pop-up roof at the central peak, add visual interest to the hip roof from the street while bathing the home's central interior in soft, natural light. The clerestory windows are further accented, inside, by exposed beams which run from each of the four corners to the center.

The utility room, located between the garage and the kitchen, is convenient to both. Amenities include a laundry sink and counter space for folding clothes.

The spacious kitchen has an eating bar, a sunny eating nook, generous counter space, a step-in pantry, and sliding door access to a patio. While not fully enclosed, the dining room is separated from the kitchen by a floor-to-ceiling partition, which blocks kitchen messes from view.

The huge family living area could be outfitted as either a family room, a living room or a mixture of the two. The corner fireplace has a tile hearth, and a nearby door provides easy access for firewood. This room also features two bay windows, a recessed home entertainment center and a concealed storage closet.

In the master suite, a skylight brightens the luxurious master bath, which features two basins and a compartmentalized toilet. And there is so much storage in this home that even the closet has a closet — a small cedar-lined area, accessed through a pocket door at the back of the room walk-in closet.

For a study plan of the FRANKLIN (209-57), send $7.50 to Landmark Design, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering.) Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

"So many people want to get rid of pets for the most frivolous reasons," said Lee Linklater, co-founder of Assisi. "People don't realize that taking in animals involves responsibility."

Linklater and her mother, Isabelle Yarosh started the animal welfare organization in December of 1988. "I always had a soft spot in my heart for animals. I was always picking up strays," explains Linklater, who works as a teacher in Chicago. When Linklater became widowed, her and her mother bought a house in rural Crystal Lake and started the shelter.

With about 150 animals in-house currently, mostly cats, the shelter is at capacity. "The hardest part of our work is not being able to take in all those in need," said Yarosh. In an effort to house more homeless animals, the organization is hoping to build another building.

The day to day care and running of the shelter is accomplished by a board of directors consisting of 13 people with varying backgrounds, volunteers, and one paid employee who also volunteers time. Although operating the shelter is the main function of the organization, education about animals is becoming increasingly important.

The foundation prints a newsletter containing articles on animal rights, veterinary tips, animal adoptions and updates on the shelter. The foundation also runs an education program at local schools and has a pet therapy program in which pets are taken to nursing homes to visit with residents.

"People are starting to believe animals have a right to live, there is a growing consciousness," said Linklater.

Annual fish sale

Orders are now being accepted for the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) annual Fish Sale. The first sale on May 18th will feature Largemouth Bass, 2" and 5-8", Bluegill, 1-2" and 2-4", and Channel Catfish, 6-8" and 8-10". Additionally, for those lakes that qualify under Illinois Department of Conservation guidelines, Triploid White Amur (Grass Carp) can be ordered for a later delivery. A permit is required to obtain this fish since its release is regulated into sanctioned water bodies.

Call (708)223-1056 today to obtain an order form. Ordering deadline is May 3. The sale is open to the general public.

Antioch still has hope

This may seem a bit strange coming from a coach whose team has won only one game at week's start and none in conference action, but Antioch Coach Greg Decker is hopeful this week will be one in which the Sequoits can gain some respect.

The Sequoits battle a couple of teams which have been struggling at times this spring. Antioch, 0-9 in the North Suburban Conference, faces North Chicago this week and after a May 3 doubleheader against contender Niles North, faces Mundelein.

"I'd like to win four out of our next six games and get out of the basement," Decker said.

Antioch dropped two games to Stevenson last week, 11-1 and 12-2. The 11-2 game was closer than the score indicated, as the Sequoits tied Stevenson 2-2 into the fifth inning.

Children's advocacy director receives gold medal award

Lake county State's Attorney, Michael Waller, announced today that Laura Notson, the Director of the Lake County Children's Advocacy Center, has been presented an award by the United States Department of Justice. The award was presented to Notson in recognition of her outstanding leadership in serving the needs of children who are victims of sexual abuse.

Jane Nady Burnley of the U.S. Department of Justice Office for Victims of Crimes stated in presenting the award to Laura Notson that she provides "a source of inspiration and encouragement" for others in the criminal justice system. Ms. Burnley stated that "individuals such as Notson serve as role models for others to become involved in the victim rights movement."

In accepting the award Notson stated that the honor belongs to the Lake County Children's Advocacy Center. She noted that the Advocacy Center, which is a part of the State's Attorney's office, brings together Professional investigators and counselors from various police and child care agencies to aid children who are victims of sexual abuse. The Children's Advocacy Center, which was established in 1987, investigated sex offenders and counseled children in two hundred and thirty-four such cases were handled.

State's Attorney Waller cited the accomplishments of Notson and the Children's Advocacy Center. Funded by a combination of private grants and other non-tax dollars, the Center has received Chicago Tribune Christmas Fund grants for two consecutive years, as well as the National Foundation for the Improvement of Justice's Gold Medal Award and grant. State's Attorney Waller also noted that Laura Notson, since becoming the Director of the Children's Advocacy Center, has lectured in San Francisco and Tucson to other professionals in the area of child sexual abuse.

Johnson gives concerns on landfill citing bill

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

A Grayslake resident has appeared before a committee of the Illinois legislature, which is pondering a bill to regulate how landfills are sited.

"House Bill six weakens local control on how these facilities are cited," Earl Johnson said.

Johnson, treasurer of the Curb Over Development (COD) group, helped organize a letter-writing campaign of Lake County residents opposed to the proposed House Bill six. The letters were distributed to some 21 House of Representatives members. The bill was being considered by the Natural Resources and Environment Committee.

Johnson said the bill is a complex one, with several factors in addition to siting landfills. He said this was done purposely so those opposing the bill would find portions of it they support.

Johnson objects to such clauses as no source reduction provisions. "It maintains business as usual," he said.

In a letter, Lake County Citizens for Environmental Reform (CLEAR), stated strict local standards now in place could be challenged by waste haulers if they believed the rules were "unnecessary or unreasonable". The letter said that Lake County citizens are "ready to become more active in waste reduction especially when encouraged by good leaders."

"The residents would have no voice.

They could mandate a place, but residents could not give an opportunity to address it," he said.

Johnson said 90 percent of the letter writers were COD members.

"It's a way for Chicago to have a place for their grabage because Chicago and Cook County are running out of landfill space," Hilda Sweda of Zion said.

The Lincolnshire-based REACH - Reduction, Recycling, Education and Action for Lake County Health, had a letter included in the packet.
